

List of Contributors

Edgar Agaba, LLB, is Executive Director, and Technical Advisor, Public Procurement and Disposal of Public Assets Authority, Uganda. He is a member of the Uganda Bar. He has been involved with the World Bank and OECD in projects to strengthen procurement capacity in developing countries

Barbara Ann C. Allen, Ph.D., is a Research Fellow at the School of Public Policy, University of Birmingham, United Kingdom, and Associate of the Carleton University Research Unit on Innovation, Science, and the Environment in Ottawa, Canada. Her teaching and research interests are in procurement, supply management, and public policy, service delivery, and public management reform.

Rafael S. Arantes, M.P.A., is a specialist in public policy and government management and works as the coordinator of the sector responsible for the elaboration of norms and guidance in the Logistics and General Services, Department of the Ministry of Planning, Budget and Administration. His areas of specialization and research interest are tenders, contracts and electronic government.

Barbara Baarsma is head of the Competition and Regulation Department at SEO Economic Research.

Elmer Bakker, Ph.D., is a Research Officer at the Centre for Research in Strategic Purchasing and Supply (CRiSPS), University of Bath School of Management. His research interests are collaborative procurement, organizational and individual behavior in supply chain management.

Dean E. Brunk graduated in May 2006 from Stetson University College of Law with both his M.B.A. and J.D. His interests include public contract law and corporate governance.

Nigel Caldwell, Ph.D., is a Research Fellow at the Centre for Research in Strategic Purchasing and Supply (CRiSPS), University of Bath

School of Management. His research includes public procurement and the management of customer-supplier relationships.

Guy C Callender, Ph.D., is Foundation Professor and Chair of Leadership in Strategic Procurement, Curtin Business School, Curtin University of Technology. His teaching and research interests are procurement, the supply chain, supply market intelligence and commercial history.

Lina Carlsson, LL.M., is Ph.D. Candidate at the Division of Sociology of Law, Lund University. Her research interests are in ecological aspects of public procurement.

Laura Carpineti is a member of the Research Unit of Consip, Italian Public Procurement Agency. Her research interests are public procurement, industrial organization, and game theory.

Sandy Y L Chong, Ph.D., is a Lecturer of School of Marketing, Curtin Business School, Curtin University of Technology. Her teaching and research interests are in interorganizational relationship management, business process management, innovation adoption and communication strategies.

Ari Ekroos, LL.D., is a professor of economic law at the Helsinki University of Technology. His research field covers economic, environmental and public law as well as environmental policy issues.

Andrew Erridge is Professor of Public Policy and Management in Public Procurement, School of Policy Studies, University of Ulster, Northern Ireland

Flóra Felsö is a researcher at SEO Economic Research, the contract research department of the University of Amsterdam. Her research interest is competition and regulation.

Loren F. Foresti is director of the Logistics and General Services Department of the Ministry of Planning, Budget and Administration, the body responsible for issuing norms and guidance regarding tenders and contracts, in addition to the maintenance of electronic systems for procurement and related systems.

Christine Harland, Ph.D., Professor, is the Director of the Centre for Research in Strategic Purchasing and Supply (CRiSPS), University of Bath School of Management. Her research interests are supply strategy in complex networks, the policy role of public procurement and evidence based purchasing.

Sean Hennigan is Research Associate in Public Procurement, School of Policy Studies, University of Ulster, Northern Ireland.

Thomas Johnsen, Ph.D., is a Lecturer in Purchasing and Supply Management at the Centre for Research in Strategic Purchasing and Supply (CRiSPS), University of Bath School of Management. His research interests are innovation in supply networks, supplier relationship management, outsourcing and supply network strategies.

Andrew B. Kidd is the Manager, Strategy and Executive Services within the Contract Services business unit of the South Australian Government Department for Administrative and Information Services. His areas of interest and experience include change management, policy development and public sector reform.

Merijn M. Linthorst, M.Sc., is a Ph.D. student, University of Twente, Enschede, the Netherlands. His research interests are complex public and private tenders.

Michael Lewis, Ph.D., is a Professor of Operations and Supply Management at the University of Bath School of Management. His research interests include the blurring of product and service boundaries (the servitization process).

William Lucyshyn, M.S., is the Director of Research and a Senior Research Scholar at the Center for Public Policy and Private Enterprise in the School of Public Affairs at the University of Maryland. His research interests are in public administration, public procurement, and public policy.

Clifford McCue, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor, School of Public Administration, Florida Atlantic University. His teaching and research interests are in public administration, public procurement, and public policy.

José Mulder was a researcher at SEO Economic Research at the time of this research project, and is currently a Ph.D. student at Intervict at the University of Tilburg.

Ari Nissinen, Ph.D., is a senior researcher, Finnish Environment Institute. His research field covers ecologically more sustainable products and services, and instruments of integrated product policy.

Katriina Parikka-Alhola, M.Sc., is a researcher Finnish Environment Institute. Her research interests are in integrated product policy, especially in green public procurement and product panels.

Wendy Phillips, Ph.D., is a Research Fellow at the Centre for Research in Strategic Purchasing and Supply (CRiSPS), University of Bath School of Management. Her research interests are technology and innovation management and the role of public procurement in promoting the uptake and diffusion of new technologies.

Gustavo Piga, Ph.D., is Professor of Economics, Faculty of Economics, University of Rome "Tor Vergata," Italy. His teaching and research interests are public procurement, public debt and monetary policy.

Eric Prier, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor, Department of Political Science, Florida Atlantic University. His teaching and research interests are in politics, public procurement, and public policy.

Ringa Raudla, M.A., is a doctoral student at the Chair of Public Finance and Fiscal Sociology, University of Erfurt, and a lecturer at the Chair of Public Administration, University of Tartu, Estonia. Her teaching and research interests are in public finance, fiscal sociology, and public procurement.

Vinício Rossetto, a lawyer specialized in public law, is an adviser to the Logistics and General Services Department of the Ministry of Planning, Budget and Management whose main area of work is tenders, contracts and electronic government.

Joshua I. Schwartz, J.D. and M. City & Regional Planning, is Professor of Law and Co-Director of the Government Procurement Law LL.M. Program, George Washington University Law School. His scholarship and teaching focus on public procurement law and regulation and administrative law.

Nigel Shipman, MA, MBA, FCILT, MCIPS, is a Technical Advisor, Public Procurement and Disposal of Public Assets Authority, Uganda. He was formerly head of the government procurement service in Hong Kong and is a Visiting Lecturer at the Hong Kong Polytechnic University.

Ohad Soudry, a Ph.D. candidate, Institute of Law and Economics, University of Hamburg, Germany, is currently working with the Department for International Agreements and International Litigation, Ministry of Justice, Israel. His research interests are public procurement, Law and Economics and regulation.

Jan Telgen, Ph.D., is NEVI Professor of Purchasing Management, respectively, University of Twente, Enschede, the Netherlands. His teaching and research interests are the interface between public sector purchasing management and operations research.

Khi V. Thai, Ph.D., is a professor, School of Public Administration, and Director, NIGP-FAU Public Procurement Research Center. His research interests are in public budgeting, financial management, public procurement and environment studies.

Martin Trybus, LL.M., is Senior Lecturer, University of Sheffield, United Kingdom. His research interests include procurement law and international trade law.

Fredrik Waara, M.Sc. (CE), is Ph.D. Candidate at the Department of Technology Management and Economics, Chalmers University of Technology. His research interests are in public procurement, technology management, and service management.

Helen Walker, Ph.D., is a Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Research in Strategic Purchasing and Supply (CRiSPS), University of Bath School of Management. Her research interests are sustainability and supply in the public sector.

Matteo Zanza, M.S., is a consultant for Arthur D. Little S.p.A. and worked for more than two years in Consip's Research Unit. His working and research interests are in procurement.